THE SOMEWHAT STARTLING PROPOSALS BY THE Government--An Irish Deputation Visits Mr. Gladstone--From India--Other News.

LONDON, October 4.--The Daily News says: Lord Randolph Churchill's comprehensive Radical proposals are somewhat startling, even to advanced Liberals. The government proposes to do next year what the Liberals have tried to do in the past six sessions. They have given the Unionists the control of their policy to enable them to retain office.

The Chronicle says: The Conservative programme presents the best phase of Liberalism, but is a work for the whole Parliament rather than for two sessions.

The Daily Telegraph says: The Conservative programme is varied and voluminous enough to satisfy even the most exacting. Old party lines seem to be disappearing. The House of Commons cannot do more than reform, the first resolve to maintain the Union, the second resolved to repeal the Union.

The Standard says: Lord Churchill's speech was moderate in tone, sensible and well expressed, and will strengthen the position of the Conservatives as one of the Conservative leaders. His treatment of domestic subjects cannot be charged to timidity or reticence, but rather to overcautiousness.

Terrible Explosion at a Colliery. LONDON, October 4.--A terrible explosion occurred on Saturday at Alton's colliery, near Wakefield, Yorkshire. Seven men have been found dead, eight have been rescued and seventeen are missing. In all probability the missing seventeen lost their lives.

Mangled Chorus and Hisses. DUBLIN, October 4.--The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and his wife went to the Gaiety Theatre in this city Saturday evening. They were cheered by the people in the lower part of the house, while those in the gallery hissed and shouted "God save Ireland."

"Will Flounder From Mistakes Into Crimes." DUBLIN, October 4.--The Freeman's Journal says Lord Randolph Churchill said that if he really believed in the statement that the Irish difficulty is solely agrarian, "He will flounder from mistakes into crimes."

Natives Attack British Troops in India. BOMBAY, October 3.--At the festival at Awarah the local magistrate, seeing that a conflict between Hindus and Mohammedans was inevitable, brought a company of British troops to the scene. The natives, infuriated at their approach, threw themselves on the soldiers' bayonets in the intense excitement. Many of the natives were mortally wounded. Intense excitement prevails.

Denies That He Instigated Mutiny. MADRID, October 4.--Gen. Villacampa has denied the charge that he instigated the recent mutiny. He took command of the mutineers, he says, and endeavored to dissuade them from useless struggle. The Pope has connected to intercede for Gen. Villacampa.

To Concede Two Points to France. PARIS, October 4.--The Temps says that M. de Vilers, French representative in Madagascar, has telegraphed to the government that the Hovas are prepared to concede two points to France--the annulment of the convention in regard to the Royal Bank of Madagascar, and the delimitation of the French possessions on Diego Quarez bay.

A Most Extraordinary Murder. PARIS, October 4.--From the Paris Ocala comes a story of one of the most extraordinary murders of the century. Last spring the body of a young girl of 15, named Marie L. de la, residing with her parents at R. rue des Aras, was found in a field in the neighborhood, stabbed in the heart, and with the cord of artery severed. A judicial investigation showed that the robbery had not been the cause of the crime. At length suspicion fell on two persons, cousins, named Muchambled--the one, Henri, aged 16; the other, Clement, about the same age, a Smith's apprentice. On being pressed with questions they confessed and, to explain the motive, under which they acted, handed the magistrate a sort of memoir, entitled "Drame Horrible," written some weeks before the crime, in which they had traced out in the most r. manœuvre laque the plan of the crime. The opening passage read: "The opening passage read: 'We had arrived at the age of 16 years. Like young men brought up in luxury and idleness, we had vegetated in the world, meeting with only trouble and torment. We were scarcely 15 years old when we already loved a woman with all her seductions. We loved her with passions to such a point that if separated from her we should have died of grief and despair.' The sequel of the story is that 'Great Serpent' and 'Fleet Deer' resolved to murder the young girl, who is the heroine, and said to be in love with 'Great Serpent.' She had caused the two friends to be jealous of each other. The two cousins thought first of hanging Marie L. de la. They had bought a revolver for the purpose. But they then changed their minds and borrowed a revolver to blow Marie's brains out with. Finally they decided to be more romantic and more savage, and to accomplish the crime with knives. They had bought the fair of Aras two large knives. They had leather sheaths made for them, and for ten days before the commission of the crime they wore these knives in belts. 'Proud,' they wrote, 'to feel ourselves armed.' At dusk, on May 21st, 'Great Serpent' and 'Fleet Deer' overtook Marie L. de la just as she was passing through the woods on her way home to her parents' farm. 'Fleet Deer' threw himself on the young girl, put his knee upon her chest and stabbed her seventeen times. 'Great Serpent' meanwhile was watching to give the alarm in case of any pursuit. The body of the poor child was discovered the next evening, bathed in her own blood, the throat gaping open and the head nearly severed from the body. Such was the deed in all its details, this carrying out of the crime which had been planned in the 'Drame Horrible.' But here the reality ended. Instead of taking their own lives after having left the unfortunate Marie a prey to the worms and ants, as described in their story, they went home, and would have preserved their secret had not the vigilance of the police led to their arrest. They were sentenced to fifteen years' hard labor and their parents to pay 4000 francs to poor Marie's father.

Mr. Gladstone Receives Deputations from Ireland.

HAWARDEN, October 4.--Mr. Gladstone and his wife, today, received Mrs. T. D. Sullivan, wife of the Lord Mayor of Dublin, and the deputation of Irish ladies appointed by the women of Ireland to present the petition with a mammoth petition in favor of home rule. September 21st had been appointed as the day of the reception, but it had necessarily to be postponed because of the serious illness of Mrs. Henry Drew, Mr. Gladstone's daughter, who is at present almost recovered. The petition has the signatures of 500,000 Irish women.

Great crowds have flocked hither all day in view of the event. Accompanying the deputation of Irish ladies were deputations representing the Municipal Councils of Cork, Limerick, Waterford and Clonmel. The place was perfectly alive with visitors, who were accorded the freedom of the town. Mrs. Gladstone, Mr. Herbert Gladstone, the Rev. Stephen Gladstone, Miss Helen Gladstone and the Rev. Henry Drew, the ex-Premier's son-in-law, met the deputations as they entered the ground and conducted them to the library. When Mr. Gladstone, Mrs. Gladstone, Mr. Herbert Gladstone, the Rev. Stephen Gladstone, Miss Helen Gladstone and the Rev. Henry Drew, the ex-Premier's son-in-law, met the deputations as they entered the ground and conducted them to the library. When Mr. Gladstone, Mrs. Gladstone, Mr. Herbert Gladstone, the Rev. Stephen Gladstone, Miss Helen Gladstone and the Rev. Henry Drew, the ex-Premier's son-in-law, met the deputations as they entered the ground and conducted them to the library.

When Mr. Gladstone replied his voice was somewhat husky. He said he believed that the deputations and Nationalist members of the House of Commons truly represented the Irish as a people. "At my age," he said, "Mr. Gladstone said, in reference to the request that he visit Ireland, 'the question of visiting Ireland is beset with uncertainty. Whatever may be my condition, whether of ill-health or absence from among them, the Irish people will always largely share my interest and my affection.'"

The Society of Jesus. PARIS, October 4.--The Gaulois gives some interesting particulars in regard to the number, organization and present condition of the members of the Society of Jesus. The Jesuits were 40,000 strong in the whole world in 1760; there were scarcely 1000 in 1809, all expelled; today they are from 7000 to 8000 in number. They were expelled from France, from Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Russia, Holland, the whole of Central America and a portion of South America. They are tolerated in Spain, in England, Austria and Belgium. They enjoy full liberty as simple citizens of the United States and in the English colonies. Nowhere, we believe, are they recognized as by a State as the Society of Jesus, if not in some republic of South America. The Jesuit Society is divided into two classes of individuals, those who belong to the order, but who can be expelled by a decision of the general from one day to another, and those in respect to whom the order is bound by a solemn engagement. All the professed fathers are not in the latter category, and a Jesuit does not become a professed father until after the priesthood, which he does not receive until 34 years of age, and after the pledge of strong vows. He then undergoes a final examination, the result of which decides his future in the order. He afterward leads a life of individual severity, if he is to be admitted to pass, some day, to the order, what is called "the third year," and it is only after this last year of study that the order is bound in this particular. The Pope alone can expel him from the society and for considerations of exceptional gravity. A Jesuit of Louisiana, a partisan of the doctrine of M. Charcot, wrote, recently, a book to prove that the miracles of St. Theresa were all in the domain of the natural, and that the temperament of the saint sufficed to explain them. The book was condemned at Rome, but the writer was not expelled from the order. The fact is that each Jesuit enjoys full liberty in his philosophical judgments, and one would never find the attempt to enumerate all the bizarre works written by members of the society at different epochs. It is this independence of mind and freedom in the choice of their studies which have constituted the whole force in all times past of the disciples of Loyola.

Appointed to the Land Commission. LONDON, October 4.--Thomas Knile, of B. L. way, Armagh, a tenant farmer and a Liberal in politics, has been appointed a member of the new Royal Irish Land Commission in place of Mr. Fottrell, resigned.

Cable Fishers. LONDON, October 4.--Capt. Bedford Clapperton Trevelyan Pim, M.P., is dead, aged 60 years.

Dublin, October 4.--Four of the moonlighters arrested at Feale Bridge were discharged on Saturday.

Passey, October 4.--The Unterhaus has prolonged for a period of ten years the Ausro-Hungarian customs union.

LONDON, October 4.--The tin plate works in South Wales are being closed, forcing out of employment 4000 workmen.

VENICE, October 4.--The Memorial Diplomatic says that Lord Salisbury is preparing a circular to the powers on the Egyptian question.

NAPLES, October 4.--The police have dissolved a clerical society entitled "Leo VIII." on the ground that it promoted the recent disorders.

LONDON, October 4.--The Democrats of London held a meeting in Trafalgar Square yesterday afternoon, at the conclusion of which they quietly dispersed.

Hay Fever Sufferers. The number of people annually afflicted with this most annoying malady seems to be greatly on the increase.

The editor of this journal is an annual victim, and with a view to all cover a special list of numerous remedies. Of these "Ely's Cream Balm" is by all odds the quietest and most satisfactory, two applications greatly alleviating the usual symptoms in the nose and eyes. We would recommend its use by all subject to hay fever, and we gladly bear unqualified testimony to its efficacy in our own case.

NORTHWESTERN CROPS

AS REPORTED BY THE CHICAGO "FARMERS' REVIEW."

Reports of the Average Yield Vary Only Slightly From Former Reports.

CHICAGO, Ill., October 4.--The following crop summary will appear in this week's issue of the Farmers' Review.

The crop returns for the week, in a general way, show that corn is well matured throughout the entire Western belt, and sufficiently so to withstand the heavy frosts of the last few days of the week. In Missouri and Kentucky the corn is ready for harvesting and cribbing. In Iowa and Illinois harvesting will begin about October 10th. The reports showing the average yield does not vary but slightly from the former estimates, which are considerably under those of the preceding year. In Iowa the average is estimated to be twenty bushels to the acre, five report twenty-five bushels, three thirty bushels, two thirty-five and one sixty bushels. In seventeen counties of Iowa one report ten bushels, three fifteen bushels, two twenty bushels, three twenty-five bushels, one thirty bushels, one thirty-five bushels, one forty bushels and one forty-five bushels. The average continues good for Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, and low in Wisconsin, Missouri and Kansas.

Plowing for the fall sowing of wheat is progressing and in many portions of Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Kentucky is completed and some seeding has already been done.

The wheat movement in Dakota is now light, a great deal of wheat having already been marketed. The ruling prices are 50 to 55 cents per bushel. The movement is slow in Minnesota at 55 to 65 cents. In Illinois very little wheat is being sold, with prices 60 to 75 cents. In Iowa the wheat movement is fair at 50 to 65 cents. In Ohio considerable wheat is being marketed at 65 to 75 cents. In Missouri the wheat movement has fallen off, with ruling prices 50 to 72 cents. In Kansas there is scarcely any wheat moving, with prices 50 to 70 cents. In Michigan wheat is freely marketed at 69 to 73 cents. In Wisconsin there is a fair movement at 65 to 75 cents. The factor of the report shows that crops generally are healthy, with a somewhat lighter run than usual, while cattle are looking better, with improved pasturage.
